Science - animal tracks

Watch the video clip on animal tracks <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Xz02S-CizAU>

Can you discover any tracks in your garden? These could be from your pets (if you have any) or from garden birds. Looking in mud or even snow (if we get any) is a good place to start. Animal Tracker sheet

In addition to this sheet, this site has several identification sheets for you to use at your leisure when going on walks http://www.treetoolsforschools.org.uk/activitymenu/?cat=animal_id

DT - Pop Up cards

This week, we are going to use our skills to create pop up cards. Take a look at this website (one of my favourites for crafts) and follow the instructions to make a pop up animal card <https://www.redtedart.com/how-to-make-pop-up-cards-with-animals/> Here are links to some of the designs on their site but there are many others.

Penguins <https://www.redtedart.com/easy-pop-up-penguin-card/>

Owls <https://www.redtedart.com/pop-up-beak-owl-cards/>

Butterfly <https://www.redtedart.com/easy-pop-up-butterfly-card/>

Bear <https://www.teacherspayteachers.com/Product/3d-Pop-Up-Heart-Cards-for-Valentines-Day-or-Mothers-Day-Basic-Shapes-3d-5171844> this is a hugging one, so you could make it for someone you are missing at the moment.

Cat <https://www.redtedart.com/3d-cat-card-diy/> - template available

There are also templates under resources if you'd prefer (dog,

NOTE: Sadly, the RedTed site has several pop-up adverts!

There are also ideas for Valentine's Day if you'd like to make cards for your family <https://www.redtedart.com/14-valentines-cards-for-kids/>

Wildlife Photographer of the Year - Take a look at the online gallery at Tring Natural History Museum <https://www.nhm.ac.uk/wpy/gallery>

Which of the photographs do you think is the best? Copy and paste your favourite image and write down why it is your favourite. Think about the subject, the colours, the details etc.

Some children may find some of the images upsetting as they show animals not be treated well. I have created a photograph file under resources which omits these images if you'd prefer to show these instead.

Now you can be the photographer or illustrator. Use a camera with an adult's permission and take a photograph in your garden or in an outdoor space. Send us your images so we can create a gallery too!

Optional activity: linked to the film clip used in literacy of 'Buster the Bouncer'.

There have been a lot of videos posted online that show animals bouncing along to the advert. Use animation software (for example <https://pivotanimator.net/>) to make an animation of an animal or person bouncing or purple mash animation 2animate.

If you prefer, you may want to sketch out your ideas on a comic strip or story board as real animators do before they use software. There are templates under resources for you to do this activity instead.
